

Hybrid

Class meetings can also be taught in a hybrid course format with both face-to-face (classroom) sessions and through online learning activities. In a typical hybrid course, registered students attend designated classroom sessions with their instructors and classmates on campus for approximately 50% -70% of scheduled class time, and then complete additional coursework through designated online learning activities. Required on campus meeting times and date information for hybrid courses are listed on the college schedule. Hybrid courses are designed to have the same academic rigor of on-campus courses, and these courses run following the course start and finish dates of the on-campus semester schedule.
