

Dr. Terry Lindsay has 31 years of experience in higher education, including 11 years in executive leadership roles. He currently serves as the Vice President for Student Affairs at Albany State University in Albany, Georgia.

As the first member of his immediate family to graduate from both high school and college, Dr. Lindsay understands the transformative power of education. This personal experience fuels his passion for creating supportive and nurturing environments that empower every student to reach their full potential.

Throughout his career in higher education, Dr. Lindsay has demonstrated expertise in key areas such as workforce training and economic development, strategic planning, budget planning and management, enrollment, and academic program development. His experience also encompasses financial planning and management, fundraising, and grant writing.

Prior to his role at Albany State University, Dr. Lindsay served as Vice President for Student Affairs and Campus Life and Associate Professor of Leadership and Diversity at Paul Smith's College in New York. He has held administrative positions at institutions including North Park University in Chicago, Harper Community College, Iowa Wesleyan University, Olivet College, and the College of the Holy Cross. In addition to his administrative roles, Dr. Lindsay has taught undergraduate courses at several colleges and has delivered a graduate course in Higher Education Administration at North Park University.

Beyond his academic and administrative achievements, Dr. Lindsay is actively involved in community engagement opportunities. He serves on the Board of Directors for the Albany Area Chamber of Commerce and the United Way of Southwest Georgia. His commitment to education and community engagement was further exemplified by his election to the school board of the Community Consolidated School District #62 in Des Plaines, Illinois, in 2010, a position he was re-elected to in 2015.

Dr. Lindsay holds a bachelor's degree in African American Studies and a master's degree in college counseling and student personnel from the State University of New York at Buffalo (SUNY Buffalo). He earned his Educational Doctorate in Educational Leadership, focusing on Higher Education Administration, from Argosy University in Schaumburg, Illinois. Additionally, he is a proud member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., which reflects his dedication to leadership and community engagement.

Terry is married to Khalilah Lindsay, and together they have six children.